Submissions with more than six authors

JPHMP requests information on the specific contributions by each author in the development, preparation and writing of the submission. Particular attention is directed to articles with more than six contributors to determine the role of these authors. Our policy is that authors must have a major or substantial role in manuscript development. Adding authors is discouraged just because they have had some involvement in the project or study described in the article but have not made substantial contributions to the writing of the submission. Preferable alternatives can be used such as an acknowledgment or use of text box list to denote multiple partners. Questions regarding this can be directed to the editors.

5. If your article contains more than 6 authors, please explain all author roles in the preparation of your article in the box below.

If WKH should decide for any reason not to publish the Work, WKH shall give prompt notice of its decision to the corresponding author, this agreement shall terminate, and neither the author nor WKH shall be under any further liability or obligation. Each author grants WKH the rights to use his or her name and biographical data (including professional affiliation) in the Work and in its or the journal’s promotion. If it is not prepared as part of the employee’s official duties, it may be subject to copyright.

Compliance with RCUK and Wellcome Trust Open Access Policies

Both the Research Councils UK (RCUK) and the Wellcome Trust have adopted policies regarding Open Access to articles that have been funded by grants from the RCUK or the Wellcome Trust. If either "Wellcome Trust" or "Research Councils UK (RCUK)" has been selected above, and the authors of the applicable article choose to have the article published as an open access publication, the following policies will apply:

* If the article is to be published pursuant to the "Gold" route of Open Access, both the RCUK and the Wellcome Trust require that WHK make the article freely available immediately pursuant to the Attribution 4.0 Creative Commons License, currently found at http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/legalcode (the "CC BY License"). The CC BY License is the most accommodating of the Creative Commons licenses and allows others to distribute, remix, tweak, and build upon the article, even commercially, as long as they credit the authors for the original creation.

* If the article is to be published pursuant to the "Green" route of Open Access, both the RCUK and the Wellcome Trust require that WHK make the article freely available within six months pursuant to the Attribution-NonCommercial 4.0 Creative Commons License, currently found at http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc/4.0/legalcode (the "CC BY-NC License"). The CC BY-NC License allows others to remix, tweak, and build upon the article non-commercially, and although their new works must also acknowledge the authors for the original creation and be non-commercial, they don't have to license their derivative works on the same terms.

As a service to our authors, WHK will identify the National Library of Medicine (NLM) articles that require deposit pursuant to the RCUK and Wellcome Trust policies described in this section. This Copyright Transfer Agreement provides the mechanism for identifying such articles.

WHK will transmit the final peer-reviewed manuscript of an article based on research funded in whole or in part by either RCUK or the Wellcome Trust to Pub Med Central.

Upon NIH request, it remains the legal responsibility of the author to confirm with NIH the provenance of his/her manuscript for purposes of deposit. Author will not deposit articles him/herself. Author will not alter the final peer-reviewed manuscript already transmitted to NIH.

With respect to the "Green" route of Open Access, author will not authorize the display of the final peer-reviewed manuscript prior to 6 months following publication of the final article.

Authors of articles that have been funded from grants from the RCUK or the Wellcome Trust are required to sign the WHK Open Access License Agreement prior to publication of the applicable article. Please contact the Editorial Office of the applicable journal to receive the Open Access License Agreement that is to be signed in connection with the publication of the article.
